THE OWOSSO TIMES.

EDMUND O. DEWEY, EDITOR.

OWOSSO, FRIDAY, SEPT. 17, 1902.

Democratic speakers will have a hard time this fall in keeping their issues on straight.

The democrats deny that the United States can borrow money at 2 per cent. The bond quotations in all the papers prove the falsity of their position.

Uncle Sam's granaries are nearly bursting with the big harvest that is being poured into them. It is a wonder the democratic leaders do not file a protest in the premises.

The democrats are not advertising the fact that O'Brien, who testified to acts of cruelty and misconduct on the part of the army was arrested on the charge of perjury and is now awaiting trial.

The people have learned to put their trust in the party of action rather than in the party of unfulfilled promises, which is making a desperate effort to flee from its past record on every important issue that has been before the people for the past thirty years.

A toadist, who has recently returned to this country was asked by a friend the other day what his politics are. "Well," replied he, "when I went abroad two years ago I was a democrat, but on my return the other day I found that the democratic party had disappeared."

Two million dollars worth of diamonds have passed by the appraisers in New York within the past four months. This tells the story of great prosperity more than columns of statistics. It is only when the necessities have been supplied at home is there a loud demand for jewelry and other expensive luxuries from abroad.

There is no doubt that President Roosevelt is making a splendid impression by his able utterances. His speeches are crisp, cheerful and sensible, and are in sharp contrast to the usual remarks of Mr. Bryan. The President is the exponent of contentment, while Mr. Bryan is for dissatisfaction and discontent.

The democrats are now trying to steal the thunder of President Roosevelt by declaring that Bryan in his acceptance of the presidential nomination in 1896 said: "Corporations are creatures of law and they must not be permitted to pass under the control of the power which created them." It is true that Bryan did say that, but what has the democratic party done since that time to make good? With the exception of the state convention held in Ohio recently, there has not been an organized gathering but has repudiated Bryan in one way or another.

Found A Candidate.

By actual count seventy persons, including newspaper reporters and a few republicans, gathered in convention in the city hall building yesterday afternoon for the purpose of placing in nomination a democratic candidate for representative in congress from the Eighth district. Measured by the interest manifested and the attendance, the convention was a fizzle and the apathy thick enough to cut with a knife. It was necessary to appoint a conference committee to secure a candidate, everybody dodging the nomination with agility. After the field had been thoroughly threshed over and no one could be induced to take the nomination, the convention settled down upon Hon. Henry M. Youmans, "the Cincinnati of Saginaw county," as Mr. Purcell designated him in the effort to galvanize the convention into some semblance of enthusiasm. The plati-tudes indulged in so generously in presenting his name to the convention were in marked contrast to the contempt which he encountered in by-gone days, he having been turned down for a renomination for congress and also for the state senate. Talk was very cheap yesterday, but none of it was put on record in resolutions.

The convention, however, might have gone farther and fared worse, in its perfunctory task. Mr. Youmans is a good citizen, and kind neighbor, and is respected by all who know him. He will cut but very little figure in a contest against Congressman Fordney, but it will be a clean canvass, and there will be no occasion for stirring up bitterness. Saginaw Courier-Herald.

FORCED IT UPON HIM

Henry M. Youmans Nominated for Congress.

TO LEAD A FORLORN HOPE.

Eighth District Democratic Congressional Convention Met and Did the Best It Could.

From the Saginaw Courier-Herald.

Henry M. Youmans, of Bridgeport, was nominated for congress by the democrats of the Eighth district yesterday. Ten years ago Mr. Youmans led a forlorn hope and won out. The party is now under the impression that lightning may again strike in the vicinity of Uncle Hank's farm. This was the tenor of the remarks, though on the side delegates expressed themselves as not having much confidence in such a streak of luck.

The convention was called to order by George B. McCaughna, of Shiawassee, who in a brief address called attention to the excellent nomination made for head of the state ticket, counseled the same good sense in nominating a congressional candidate, in which case, he said, there would be a fine chance of electing the entire ticket.

M. L. Lamphere, of Tuscola, was made temporary secretary, and committees were appointed as follows:

Permanent organization and order of business—George B. McCaughna, Shiawassee; Henry M. Youmans, Saginaw; George Smith, Tuscola.

Mr. Youmans moved that a committee of two be appointed from each county, to confer as to the best candidate for congress. An amendment by Mr. McCaughna was accepted, that the several counties should select their own members of the committee, and the motion carried.

John Leidlein, Saginaw; Edward Brown, Clinton; and John Chase, Tuscola, were appointed as the credentials committee. The convention then took a recess, which lasted until the delegates became tired, and some of them were on the point of starting for their trains. The delay was caused by the committee on conference to select a congressional candidate.

As soon as the convention took a recess, the several county delegations met and selected their conferees. The Saginaw county delegation was presided over by former State Senator John Leidlein. Dr. Eldredge, of Chesaning, said he had been in Shiawassee county and democrats there had no candidate. They thought the candidate should come from Saginaw. George C. Spatz mentioned the name of John E. Nolan as a candidate. No other names were spoken of. Miles Purcell and Wm. F. Hommter were named as the members of the conference committee from Saginaw county. The others were: From Tuscola, John Chase, John Hunter; from Shiawassee, Clark D. Smith, J. B. McIntosh; from Clinton, Edward Brown, M. M. Hill.

The conference committee had a long session. Clark D. Smith, of Shiawassee, was made chairman. He called for nominations, but there were few responses. Nobody seemed to have a candidate. The three counties waited on Saginaw, and the gentlemen representing that constituency were not sure what they wanted to do.

The name of John E. Nolan, who has been supposed to be a prospective candidate, was not mentioned. Clinton, Shiawassee and Tuscola waited on Saginaw and gave these gentlemen all possible show. Finally the name of Henry M. Youmans was broached, and the possibilities of his candidacy were discussed. The Bridgeport man was sent for from the convention hall and he went into the sweat box. As a result of his talk with the committee it was decided to report his name to the convention.

In the meantime the delegates had been getting uneasy at the protracted recess which extended from 15 minutes to an hour or more, and some of them announced their intention to leave the hall, nomination or no nomination. Mayor Baum rapped the convention to order, and Chairman Leidlein reported the four counties represented and no contests. The committee on organization recommended that the temporary organization be permanent, which was adopted.

Geo. Smith, of Tuscola, and George Spatz, of Saginaw, were appointed tellers, but their services were not required.

On motion of George W. Smith, of Tuscola, each county was allowed to select its member of the congressional committee. This was made the order of business before the nomination, as the chairman said, to prevent its being lost in the shuffle, as had been done previously. The committee men named were as follows: Clinton, Edw. Brown; Saginaw, Miles J. Purcell; Shiawassee, George B. McCaughna; Tuscola, Geo. W. Smith.

The committee on conference reported through Miles J. Purcell, who said it was, of course, understood by the delegates that there were no bargain hunters in the convention. The idea of the committee had been to select a man who could bring out the votes. It had done so. Ten years ago at Mt. Pleasant, Mr. Purcell said, the nominee went out and made the greatest campaign in the history of the district. It appeared to be a forlorn hope, but by reason of the candidate's character and ability he was elected. That was Henry M. Youmans. Mr. Youmans was called before the committee, Mr. Purcell said, and stated he was getting old and did not seek any office, but he believed it was the duty of every citizen to respond to the calls of his party. Mr. Youmans had served his party in the state senate and in the halls of congress. "This man believes in the declaration of independence the same today as when it was framed and declared all men to be free," said Mr. Purcell, "who believes that wherever the flag waves the constitution may go, and every man has a right to be protected whether he has money or no money."

He said the committee presented the name of Henry M. Youmans. Mr. McCaughna, of Shiawassee, seconded the nomination. He endorsed every word Mr. Purcell had said. He did not regard it as a forlorn hope. Shiawassee gave a good account of herself ten years ago and would do so again. John Leidlein also supported the nomination. He said the convention of ten years ago was smaller than this one, and it took several hours to decide upon a candidate. After looking the ground over this same man had been selected, and contrary to all expectations he was elected. Mr. Leidlein referred to the Atkinson bill, a Pingree measure against the railroads, which the then State Senator Youmans voted against, and explained that Mr. Youmans gave him as a reason for his vote that he thought the bill was unconstitutional. This was in the way of an excuse for Mr. Youmans' action on that measure, which drew a good deal of censure to him.

Mr. Smith, of Tuscola, seconded the nomination "on behalf of the blackest county in the district for this old farmer," and moved the secretary cast the vote of the convention for Mr. Youmans, which was done.

Mr. Youmans, in response to calls, addressed the convention. He spoke from the platform and was introduced by Chairman Baum as the former and next congressman. The candidate said he highly appreciated the honor, which was unsought. Circumstances had been such that he thought he could not accept the nomination consistently. But he believed it the duty of every good citizen to act when called on by his party. It had been said that the man should not seek the office, but it is always desirable when the office is seeking the man that the man should be within call and that was the reason he was there. Mr. Youmans said his campaign would be made on the same lines laid out by the party's standard bearer, Judge Durand, whose letter of acceptance he praised highly. He had hoped that the convention might select younger blood. Mr. Youmans said he was over 70 years of age and to ask him to make this canvass seemed unjust, but he would accept the responsibility and make the best fight in his power. The Grand Rapids conference advised the selection of good men all along the line and that probably explained his nomination.

At the close of the candidate's speech everybody started to leave the hall, but Chairman Baum, who is accustomed to having things done in a business-like manner, would not have it that way, and although many of the delegates had made a rush for the door and eluded him, his honor rapped for order and declared a motion to adjourn carried.

The convention was a very small one. Credentials did not seem to be a matter of necessity and a list of delegates was not read. Another innovation was that no resolutions were adopted nor was a committee to draft them appointed.

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Still Bryan's Party.

Tom Johnson controlled the Ohio democratic convention and that convention adopted the platform prepared by Mr. Johnson. That Ohio democratic platform indorses in whole the Kansas City platform of 1900, which reaffirmed the Chicago platform of 1896. Tom Johnson is the heir-apparent to the "Crown of Thorns," which Mr. Bryan has worn so gracefully for six years. Mr. Johnson is Mr. Bryan's candidate for President in 1904. And yet there are democrats who believe that the party has changed and that it has cast aside the dead issues of the past. Tom Johnson represents all these dead issues and he is standing for them in the Ohio campaign. The warning of the Cincinnati Enquirer, the great democratic organ of Ohio, has not been heeded by the party in that state. Two months ago the Enquirer uttered its warning in plain and unequivocal terms. In a leading editorial it said:

"The democratic party cannot win on a defunct money issue, or on a policy that takes it in any degree out of sympathy with the admiration for the brave soldiers and sailors who are fighting the battles of their country—yes, the country's battles, whether the policy at Washington is right or wrong—or in support of crank propositions to abolish private enterprise and teach the people that they must depend on government for everything, or to follow sensational leadership that, if they had any principle, have been denuded of it by selfishness."

The country is prosperous. The ipse dixit of no public man, no matter how eloquently the rhetoric may pour forth from his prolific mouth, can prevail against the condition that makes so many people happy. A volume of resolutions by political conventions, with storms of applause and music by a syndicate of brass bands, cannot restore the "issue" which passed into the night when South Africa yielded her golden treasures and the sturdy adventurers went to the Klondike, and lifting the frosty covering looked upon a yellow wealth that made pilgrims of our greatest statesmen in finance.

This warning, given by the greatest democratic organ in the country, was given in June, when the eastern democrats were trying to get together in harmony with their brethren of the west, and Cleveland, Hill and Gorman were trying to find new issues to take the place of the wornout issues of 1896 and 1900. But the democratic party is not in control of Cleveland, Hill and Gorman. It is in control of Mr. Bryan and his followers and they are still clamoring for their old issues, free trade, free silver and anti-expansion.

A lazy liver may be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. A stick is all right for the back of a lazy man. But it would be a savage as well as a stupid thing to beat a weary man or a starving man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging liver it is a great mistake to lash it with drastic drugs. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred a torpid or sluggish liver is but a symptom of an ill-nourished body, whose organs are weary with overwork. Let your liver alone. Start with the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in proper working order, and see how quickly your liver will become active and energetic.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

Caledonia Farmers' Club

The Caledonia Farmers' Club met with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Oliver at Maple Grove Farm Thursday, Sept. 4. The day being favorable the club was well represented. Many invited guests were present. Meeting was called to order by President Simeon and opened with singing by the club followed by prayer by Rev. F. S. Lyon.

Under the head of new business a limited bill of fare was suggested and discussed by several but favored by none. After roll call the program was presented.

An instrumental solo by Ruby Oliver was first on the program. We were then favored with a song, "Peaceful River," by Rev. and Mrs. Lyon. Next was a talk on parliamentary laws by Mr. Gould. We were again favored with a solo by Charles Lyon, entitled "Little Black Me." Paper, "Cheerfulness in the Home," given by Mrs. H. E. Oliver at the county picnic, was called for and read. As this finished the program the question box was then presented.

"Which is the most desirable place to live, the north or the south?" Responded to by Mrs. Clayton Cook. While she liked the south, considered the north more desirable.

"What is the best method of canning corn?" was answered by Mrs. E. J. Cook who said that corn should be husked and shaved from the cob as soon as gathered, packed in the cans solidly with a potato masher until the milk rises to the top. Repeat until the can is full. Then with a little more placed on the top and the cover put on and turned nearly tight, wrap each can in a cloth and with a cloth in the bottom of the boiler, set the cans in, cover with cold water and boil three hours. Remove while hot, tighten cover and wrap in paper.

"What can men do to bring out the most sunshine from women?" Rev. Mr. Lyon gave a nice talk on the subject. He said to treat them kindly, considerately and cheerfully. In short to treat them after marriage with the same thoughtfulness as before. A most effective way is to be sunshiny yourself. If you give sunshine you receive it. Love begets love.

"What do you think of the manure spreader?" Mr. E. J. Cook thinks it a good time saver and a good thing.

"How can we prevail on our boys to remain on the farm?" Mr. J. B. Eveleth thought that a man might throw out some inducement to hold them. Mr. E. J. Cook said not to try to keep them on the farm if they were not inclined to stay. Fit them for whatever they are adapted. Make the homes pleasant as possible, then let them do as they like. Mr. Clayton Cook did not believe so much in fitting the boy for the farm as in making the farm pleasant and less hard for the boy by way of furnishing tools and machinery which lessen the labor.

As it was getting late, supper was served by our hostess. A rising vote of thanks was tendered the host and hostess and the friends who so kindly assisted. After a closing prayer by Rev. Lyon the club adjourned to meet with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Doane on the first Thursday in October.
